

Sam Olyaei

Cyber Security Trends in Government

Cybersecurity continues to be one of the top concerns of organizations, even more so as complexity and threat both increase. What are the key trends for 2018-2019 in cybersecurity, and what are the steps government leaders can take to prepare? What are the key trends in information, applications, networks, systems and endpoints? • What are the steps that cybersecurity leaders can take to mitigate risks more effectively? Attendees will learn strategic changes that aren't yet widely recognized but will have broad industry impact and significant potential for disruption.

Biography

Sam Olyaei is a Principal Research Analyst in Gartner Research, where he is a part of the Risk and Security Management group. Mr. Olyaei brings diverse and international experience in cybersecurity practices to Gartner clients and constituents. He regularly advises Chief Information Security Officers, Chief Information Officers, Chief Risk Officers and non-IT executives on maturing their security and risk practices with cutting edge research and thought leadership. Specifically, Mr Olyaei's domain focuses on a wide range of issues related to security and risk program management including strategy, governance, staffing/talent management, policies, metrics, and executive/board reporting measures. Based in Philadelphia, Mr. Olyaei is a regular speaker and presenter at Security Summits and Industry Events world-wide.